FROM THE DESK OF FATHER DAVIS

Our Gospel this weekend provides us a very real to life, visual, scene of the disciples in their boat on the Sea of Galilee, doing what was natural and ordinary for them to do: fishing. The description of the episode is earthy, sensate, and concrete. It's easy to get our mind's eye wrapped around the moment, maybe visualizing it, even placing ourselves in the scene. We can imagine the water, the boat, the nets, the dirty fingers. The exhaustion after a night of hard work. What is also real to life, however, is the first reaction and attitude of the disciples. After a night of catching nothing in their efforts to catch fish, Jesus told Simon Peter to throw the nets out again into the water, this time into deep water. The disciples reacted with an ordinary sense of surprise, incredulity, and frustration. After all, it's not like they didn't know how to fish. It was their career. Their immediate and impulsive reaction was, as if to say, "don't you get it, man? We have been at this all night long and have caught nothing! Why are you asking us to do this?!!"

Despite their first-impulse, the most revealing aspect of this Gospel narrative is that the disciples went on to acquiesce to the Lord's request. Peter said, "at your command I will lower the nets." And he did! And then, his cooperation with the Lord's promptings brought about a catch beyond Peter's wildest imagination. It illumined Peter's mind; warmed his soul. He fell to his knees in regret for his personal pride, coming to realize deeply in his heart the true identity of Jesus. Peter and his fellow fishermen at once then dropped their nets, left everything behind, became Jesus' disciples, and followed him. It was a life-transforming day that they could have scarcely imagined a mere working night ago.

For most of us who are reading this message today, we have been on the Catholic journey of faith and life for quite a while now. We have heard this passage numerous times in the course of our many years of coming to Holy Mass. At this juncture, we surely know what Jesus' expectations are. We also know his commands. Often, perhaps even out of habit, we do the "Catholic thing" the same way we have always done it. When we are asked to do things differently, more deeply, perhaps more intentionally, our first impulse is often one of resistance. We exhibit the ordinary reactions of Peter and the apostles, often incredulous; sometimes dragging our feet, maybe preferring to continue to do things "our way." We say, "do I really have to do it that way? Is this actually what my faith requires? Is this Catholic-stuff for real? Is this actually what I need to do to enhance the quality of my life? Are you serious, Lord?" Even with these questions, let's not white wash the story. The apostles and the first-century Christians wrestled with these feelings too. Although we may share with them the ordinary, human feelings, and frustrations of life, the good news is that when we take Christ at his word, and "at his command," we are hard pressed not to find the illumination and truth of his holy inspirations. His way is always much better than ours. He invites us to be not afraid. To put out into the deep and follow him. Jesus calls each of us to do things differently, even to live differently. Sometimes it means dropping our nets and leaving the ordinary patterns behind, so as to embark upon a new day in our lives of faith. Maybe to embrace the idea of a holy vocation.

May we let go of our first impulses, which frequently hold us back. May we Instead lend our ears to hear his voice, prompting us to take action, throwing the nets out again, but this time into deep water than we are accustomed to tread. We'll then surely be amazed at what life will be like "at his command," on our way to bringing in a bigger catch than we could have ever imagined.

Nuestro Evangelio de este fin de semana nos brinda una escena real y visual de los discípulos en su bote en el Mar de Galilea, haciendo lo que era natural y ordinario para ellos hacer: pescar. La descripción del episodio es práctica, sensata y concreta. Es fácil envolver nuestra mente alrededor del momento, tal vez visualizarlo, incluso ubicarnos en la escena. Nos podemos imaginar el agua, el barco, las redes, los dedos sucios. El agotamiento después de una noche de trabajo arduo. Lo que también es real en la vida, sin embargo, es la primera reacción y actitud de los discípulos. Después de una noche de no haber capturado nada en sus esfuerzos por pescar, Jesús le dijo a Simón Pedro que arrojara las redes nuevamente al agua, esta vez al agua profunda. Los discípulos reaccionaron con un sentido normal de sorpresa, incredulidad y frustración. Después de todo, no es como si ellos no supieran pescar. Era su carrera. Su reacción inmediata e impulsiva fue, como si dijeran: "¿no lo entiendes, hombre? ¡Hemos estado en esto toda la noche y no hemos pescado nada! ¿Por qué nos pides que hagamos esto?!"

A pesar del primer impulso, el aspecto más revelador de esta narrativa del Evangelio es que los discípulos aceptaron la petición del Señor. Pedro dijo: "A tus órdenes bajaré las redes". ¡Y lo hizo! Y luego, su cooperación con las indicaciones del Señor provocó una pesca más allá de la imaginación más salvaje de Pedro. Iluminó la mente de Pedro; calentó su alma. Se arrodilló, arrepentido de su orgullo personal, llegando a darse cuenta profundamente en su corazón de la verdadera identidad de Jesús. Pedro y sus compañeros pescadores inmediatamente dejaron caer sus redes, dejaron todo atrás, se convirtieron en discípulos de Jesús y lo siguieron. Fue un día que transformo sus vidas que nunca ni se hubiesen imaginado que pasara la noche antes cuando pescaban.

Para la mayoría de los que estamos leyendo este mensaje hoy, hemos estado en el camino católico de la fe y la vida desde hace bastante tiempo. Hemos escuchado este pasaje varias veces en el transcurso de nuestros muchos años de asistir a la Santa Misa. En este momento, seguramente sabemos cuáles son las expectativas de Jesús. También conocemos sus mandatos. A menudo, quizás incluso por costumbre, hacemos lo "católico" de la misma manera que siempre lo hemos hecho. Cuando se nos pide que hagamos las cosas de manera diferente, más profundamente, quizás más intencionalmente, nuestro primer impulso es a menudo uno de resistencia. Mostramos las reacciones ordinarias de Pedro y los apóstoles, a menudo incrédulos; a veces arrastrando nuestros pies, tal vez prefiriendo continuar haciendo las cosas "a nuestra manera". Nosotros decimos: "¿Realmente tengo que hacerlo de esa manera? ¿Es esto realmente lo que mi fe requiere? ¿Esto de los católicos es de verdad? ¿Es esto realmente lo que necesito hacer para mejorar la calidad de mi vida? ¿Hablas en serio, Señor?" Incluso con estas preguntas, no cambiemos la historia. Los apóstoles y los cristianos del primer siglo lucharon con estos sentimientos también. Si bien podemos compartir con ellos los sentimientos ordinarios, humanos y las frustraciones de la vida, la buena noticia es que cuando tomamos a Cristo en su palabra y "a su mandato", nos cuesta mucho no encontrar la iluminación y la verdad de sus inspiraciones santas. Su camino es siempre mucho mejor que el nuestro. Nos invita a no tener miedo. Echar en lo profundo y seguirlo. Jesús nos llama a cada uno de nosotros a hacer las cosas de manera diferente, incluso a vivir de manera diferente. A veces significa dejar caer nuestras redes y dejar atrás los patrones ordinarios, para embarcarnos en un día nuevo en nuestras vidas de fe. Tal vez aceptar la idea de una vocación santa.

Que podamos dejar ir nuestros primeros impulsos, que frecuentemente nos frenan. En vez de eso, que prestemos nuestros oídos para escuchar su voz, lo que nos impulsa a tomar medidas, lanzando las redes nuevamente, pero esta vez en aguas más profundas de las que estamos acostumbrados. Entonces, seguramente nos sorprenderemos de cómo será la vida "con sus mandatos", en el camino de capturar una presa más grande de lo que jamás hubiésemos imaginado.

BUS PILGRIMAGE ANOTHER SUCCESS!

Last Tuesday, the Little Flower Pilgrimage Ministry once again had a fabulous trip. Fifty pilgrims accompanied by Fr. Flores made the trip to see and tour St. Vincent De Paul Regional Seminary in Boynton Beach. After touring the beautiful grounds, Library, dorms and Chapels we shared a beautiful Liturgy in the Chapel of St. Mary's.

Upon the conclusion of a delicious lunch, the group headed west to St. Katherine Drexel in Weston. Here we had the honor and blessing of an audience with Miami's newest Auxiliary Bishop, the Most Reverend Enrique Delgado, who was also our private Tour Guide around his beautiful parish, which included a powerful memorial to the attacks of 9/11 and a piece of one of the World Trade buildings which they have on display. A truly great time was had by all.

Please go to our website and click the photo album of the pilgrimage to see more of the great photos from the trip!

SERVING IN THE NAME OF JESUS | SIRVIENDO EN NOMBRE DE JESÚS

WORLD YOUTH DAY REFLECTIONS

Hi, my name is Amanda Merino. I am an alumna of St. Theresa and proud graduate of Immaculata La Salle High School. I am currently a student at Florida International University. Last month, I was blessed with opportunity to attend World Youth Day in Panama. Finally being able to attend WYD was incredible! I felt united with the thousands of Catholics that attended through Christ. Being a young Catholic, I sometimes forget that there are thousands of young adults just like me all over the world practicing our same beliefs. Seeing the unity and feeling the love amongst the sea of people in Panama filled me with a greater appreciation for my faith and ignited my soul to continue the pilgrimage everyday of my life. Something that resonated with me from my time in Panama were the wise words of Pope Francis during the vigil mass. He said, "...solo lo que se ama puede ser salvado". This translates to: only what is loved can be saved. This really stuck with me because there are so many problems in the world today that if we used love as our only weapon, we could conquer all! I now try to apply that to every situation I encounter in my life, no matter how big or small. Seeing how amazing this experience was for me, I can only imagine what World Youth Day in Lisbon will have in store for me and the rest of the young Catholics in all the corners of the world.
