FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

My Dear Friends,

"Come see a man who told me everything I have done." (John 4:29)

She woke up that morning and went about her normal routine. The Samaritan woman went to draw water from the well not knowing that on that very day her life would be altered forever. We see how slowly but surely, she comes to the realization that the stranger that she encounters sitting at the well is in fact the Christ that they had been longing for. Jesus did not do anything spectacular to get her to believe in him. He didn't cure any sick people or raise the dead. He simply told her what she had done. He peered into her very soul, brought out the darkness, and restored her dignity. I wonder if we would respond in the same way if someone would look into our hearts and verbalize the deepest secrets that we have locked away that we don't dare tell anyone, not even in confession. Yet this gesture and the slow revelation that this stranger was indeed the Christ caused her to immediately leave the well to tell everyone about this man who told her everything she had done. She woke up that morning a sinful woman going about her daily routine and slowly developed into one of the first Christian evangelizers of Samaria. Her life would never be the same.

When we encounter Christ, we should expect our lives to be altered. But this is where we must not allow our encounters with him, particularly in the Eucharist, to become routine. Here at this table, our lives are changed. We may not come to Mass every Sunday with the expectation that something dramatic and life altering is going to happen, but maybe we should. Last week, we had a Spanish Emmaus retreat here in the parish. Many of these men came not knowing what to expect, yet others came knowing full well that they needed a course correction in their lives and came expecting life-altering results. And that's exactly what they got. These men came to the well to encounter Jesus, thirsting for the living waters he offered, and went forth, like the Samaritan woman, to tell the world what they had experienced. They encountered Jesus in each other, in the Word of God, in confession, and at the table of the Lord. Hopefully, their lives will never be the same.

We must strive this Lent to not allow something as sacred as this encounter with Christ in the Eucharist to become routine. We aren't going through a menial task. I guarantee that what you are doing right now at this Mass is more important than anything else you will do this Sunday or the rest of the week for that matter. We should expect life-altering results when we encounter the living God. Our lives should never be the same when we leave this table. Let me put it another way and forgive the hyperbole. Last month, the people of Turkey and Syria woke up one morning and went about their daily routines and within a few minutes of an earthquake their lives were dramatically changed, unfortunately, not for the better. I use this example to illustrate what's at stake. Maybe we need a spiritual earthquake to rock us to our very core so that we can grasp the amazing and transformative love that Jesus pours out unto us at this table. So many times we walk into this church on Sunday mornings as if it's something we need to check off of our Sunday to do list. This is Jesus. This is real. There is nothing more important that we will do the rest of the day. We cannot approach this table with the same "routineness" that the Samaritan woman approached the well on that fateful day. We should approach this table expecting to be transformed, expecting to be refreshed, expecting to be challenged, and expecting our lives to be totally altered because we have come face to face with our Redeemer. May we leave this church today like the Samaritan woman left the well: leaving our sins behind and ready to go out into the world to tell everyone what a life-altering event we have just witnessed. After encountering Jesus in the Eucharist, our lives should never be the same.

God bless you all,

DEL ESCRITORIO DEL PÁRROCO

Mis queridos amigos,

"Vengan a ver a un hombre que me ha dicho todo lo que he hecho". (Juan 4:29)

Se despertó esa mañana y siguió con su rutina normal. La mujer samaritana fue a sacar agua del pozo sin saber que ese mismo día su vida sería alterada para siempre. Vemos cuán lenta pero seguramente, se da cuenta de que el extraño que encuentra sentado en el pozo es, de hecho, el Cristo que habían estado anhelando. Jesús no hizo nada espectacular para que ella creyera en él. Él no curó a ninguna persona enferma ni resucitó a los muertos. Él simplemente le dijo lo que había hecho. Él miró dentro de su alma, sacó la oscuridad y restauró su dignidad. Me pregunto si responderíamos de la misma manera si alguien mirara adentro de nuestros corazones y verbalizara los secretos más profundos que hemos encerrado y que no nos atrevemos a contar a nadie, ni siquiera en confesión. Sin embargo, este gesto y la revelación lenta de que este extraño era realmente el Cristo la hizo irse inmediatamente del pozo para contarles a todos sobre este hombre que le contó todo lo que ella había hecho. Ella se despertó esa mañana como una mujer pecadora que seguía con su rutina diaria y lentamente se convirtió en una de las primeras evangelizadoras cristianas de Samaria. Su vida nunca sería la misma.

Cuando nos encontramos con Cristo, debemos esperar que nuestras vidas sean alteradas. Pero aquí es donde no debemos permitir que nuestros encuentros con Él, particularmente en la Eucaristía, se conviertan en rutina. Aquí en esta mesa, nuestras vidas se cambian. Puede que no asistamos a misa todos los domingos con la expectativa de que algo dramático y que altere la vida va a suceder, pero tal vez deberíamos. La semana pasada, tuvimos un retiro en español de Emaús aquí en la parroquia. Muchos de estos hombres vinieron sin saber qué esperar, sin embargo, otros llegaron sabiendo muy bien que necesitaban una corrección de rumbo en sus vidas y esperaban resultados que alteraran sus vidas. Y eso es exactamente lo que obtuvieron. Estos hombres llegaron al pozo para encontrarse con Jesús, sedientos de las aguas vivas que él ofrecía, y salieron, como la mujer samaritana, para contarle al mundo lo que habían experimentado. Encontraron a Jesús el uno en el otro, en la Palabra de Dios, en la confesión y en la mesa del Señor. Con suerte, sus vidas nunca serán las mismas.

Debemos esforzarnos en esta Cuaresma para no permitir que algo tan sagrado como este encuentro con Cristo en la Eucaristía se convierta en rutina. No estamos pasando por una tarea sin importancia. Les garantizo que lo que están haciendo ahora mismo en esta Misa es más importante que cualquier otra cosa que hagan este domingo o el resto de la semana. Debemos esperar resultados que alteren la vida cuando nos encontramos con el Dios vivo. Nuestras vidas nunca deberían ser las mismas cuando nos vamos de esta mesa. Permítanme decirlo de otra manera y perdonar la hipérbole. El mes pasado, los pueblos de Turquía y Siria se despertaron una mañana y siguieron con sus rutinas diarias y a los pocos minutos de un terremoto sus vidas cambiaron dramáticamente, desafortunadamente, no para algo mejor. Utilizo este ejemplo para ilustrar lo que está en juego. Tal vez necesitamos un terremoto espiritual que nos sacuda hasta lo más profundo para que podamos captar el amor asombroso y transformador que Jesús nos derrama en esta mesa. Muchas veces entramos a esta iglesia los domingos por la mañana como si fuera algo que necesitamos marcar de nuestra lista de tareas del domingo. Este es Jesús. Esto es real. No hay nada más importante que hagamos el resto del día. No podemos acercarnos a esta mesa con la misma "rutina" que la mujer samaritana se acercó al pozo en ese fatídico día. Debemos acercarnos a esta mesa esperando ser transformados, esperando ser renovados, esperando ser desafiados y esperando que nuestras vidas sean totalmente alteradas porque nos hemos encontrado cara a cara con nuestro Redentor. Que nos vayamos de esta iglesia hoy como la mujer samaritana dejó el pozo: dejando atrás nuestros pecados y listos para salir al mundo para contarles a todos del evento que cambia la vida y que acabamos de presenciar. Después de encontrarnos con Jesús en la Eucaristía, nuestras vidas nunca deben ser las mismas.

Que Dios los bendiga a todos,

Fr. Manny

St. Patrick's Day Dispensation

March 17th is observed by many as St. Patrick's Day. This year March 17 falls on a Friday of Lent, a day of fasting and abstinence. Many have asked for a dispensation from the obligation for fasting and abstinence in order to celebrate this Saint who is the Patron Saint of Ireland and Nigeria. As Archbishop of Miami, I grant the dispensation to anyone who wishes to observe the Saint's Day with a meal that includes meat but, at the same time, I encourage those who will avail themselves of this dispensation to consider substituting on that or another day the Lent Friday Fast and abstinence with another suitable penance, work of charity, or prayer.
